

CONNECTOR

Job description

There are 3 kinds of connections we may make when reading;

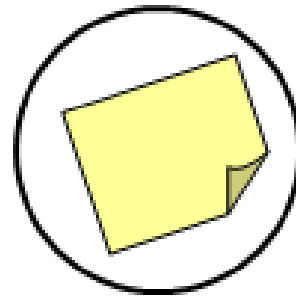

text to self: when we have had similar experiences or feelings to a character or characters in the book text to text: when we see similarities between what we reading and other books we have read. This could be things like setting, character/s or storyline or genre of the book.

text to world: when we see similarities between what we are reading and things that happen in the real world.

Your task is to make notes of any connections you may make from the passage you have just read. Indicate what kind of connection it is by writing TS, TT, or TW.

Be prepared to share your own connections and then ask other members to share any connections they may have made.

ILLUSTRATOR

Job description

Your task is to select a scene and portray it visually in your own way.

For example;

- an illustration
- labeled diagram
- or a story map

Use clear language to write a caption that describes your illustration.

Be prepared to talk about your illustration and why you chose that particular part of the story to illustrate.
